

ELECTRIC LEADER DENIES TROUBLE

Says No "Verbal Pyrotechnics" Will Mark Sessions of Workers.

President Reed, of the Delaware, Pennsylvania and District of Columbia Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, now in fourth annual convention here, today emphatically denied that he proposed to engage in any "verbal pyrotechnics" because of the recent action of the Central Labor Union, of this city, which was inimical to Locals No. 28 and 148, of the electrical workers.

The morning session of the convention today was devoted entirely to the reading of the reports and the transaction of routine business. The reports of the various participating said if the so-called Reed-McNulty controversy came up at all it would be during the afternoon session.

It is said that a dispute began several months ago between the locals over the matter of representation in the Central Labor Union, and this was taken before the American Federation of Labor for settlement.

Both so-called factions, it is claimed, are loyal to union labor, but finally local No. 28 resigned and local No. 148 was forced out, with the result that the McNulty people obtained the upper hand locally.

However, said Mr. Reed, this has nothing whatever to do with the present district meeting, and is a settled matter. Therefore, he asked that emphatic denials be given the published reports that any friction would occur during the convention's deliberations, so far as he was concerned.

WORRY ABOUT ATTIRE FOR TAFT RECEPTION

Prominent Citizens and Committeemen in Southwest Cattle Country in Quandary Whether to Wear Silk Hats or Sombreros When President Visits Them.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 30.—The local reception committees of the respective towns and cities of Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona, and New Mexico, which are to greet President Taft when he makes his trip through the Southwest in October, are bothered over the question of clothes.

In some of the towns the discussion of how the members of the reception committee should be rigged out on the momentous occasion is being carried on in the columns of the local newspapers. There is a wide difference of opinion on the subject. Over in El Paso some of the committeemen think it would be proper for them to all dress in a kind of uniform; others say dress suits and top hats are the right caper, and still others want the committee to adopt the charro suit of the Mexican ranchero.

In New Mexico and Arizona the sun is just as bad. In the towns out there the committeemen vow almost as one man that they will not discard the white sombreros and boots for any visitor, no matter if he is the President of the United States.

In San Antonio, J. H. Kirkpatrick has been posting himself on the rules of elegance on such occasions. He has reached the conclusion that each member of the committee should be permitted to welcome the President in whatever kind of attire he may choose to wear. He thinks Mr. Taft would be better pleased and be made to feel more at home if the most possible formalities were shown in the greetings.

Judge Charles W. Ogden, who is the head of the San Antonio reception committee, is also of this opinion. When the President gets down in the cattle country below San Antonio the local reception committees will make up in heartiness what they lack in stylishness of clothes. The great question is not worrying them any down there.

It is in the would-be social centers of Oklahoma where the local committees are supposed to set the standard in etiquette that the greatest excitement exists over the dress problem. In some of the Oklahoma towns special committees have been appointed to investigate precedents and make full reports as to just what is the proper attire for them when Mr. Taft makes his visit.

A check was put upon an enterprising matrimonial bureau being operated in Buffalo by Postmaster General Hitchcock today through the issuance of a Federal fraud order. James Morgan and Charles Hoy were the victims.

According to evidence gathered by postal inspectors, they were conducting a fake marriage agency at 1015 Law Exchange building, Buffalo, and also operated under aliases of Thomas Page, James Smith, and Charles Hunter. They traced to men throughout the country representing themselves as attorneys for a widow worth $50,000 who was seeking a husband to manage her estate, and requested a remittance of $10, upon the receipt of which an introduction to the lady would be made. Morgan and Hoy also guaranteed marriage to the widow within sixty days. The suspicion of the postal authorities was aroused by the great quantity of mail being received at the Buffalo office for Morgan.

It was traced to the Law Exchange building where a young lady was in charge, who received and delivered mail to a boy by his presentation of a written order. By following the boy the inspector located the perpetrators of the fraud, arrested them and caused the fraud order to be issued.

TAFT WATCHES WORK OF LAW COMMITTEE

Body Appointed to Draft Changes in Interstate Commerce Law Convenes in New York—Expect Recommendation of Entire New Legislation.

NTW YORK, Aug. 30.—The "law committee" appointed by President Taft to draft the changes which the Administration deems advisable in the interstate commerce law, met here today in the headquarters of the New York Bar Association.

Secretary Nagle, Attorney General Wickham, Solicitor General Bowers, Commissioners Prouty and Knapp, and Representative Townsend of Michigan, are members of the law committee who are attending the sessions.

Secretary Ballinger is on his way East from Seattle and may attend some of the sessions. The first meeting occurred August 21 at Beverly, when President Taft discussed the matter with Secretaries Mac-

Veagh and Meyer and Attorney General Wickham. It is said an entirely new interstate commerce bill will be introduced, with President Taft's official sanction, in the next Congress.

President Taft is watching the work of the law committee with great interest. He has said it will be easy to write some of the paragraphs in the new bill, but that those portions which relate to the violations of the anti-trust law will give his legal authorities more trouble. President Taft will go through the report of the law committee thoroughly and make such changes in their draft of the new law as his legal mind and his policy suggests to him.

The committee will be in session here for several days. It is announced that no statement would be given out until the conclusion of the session.

EXPLOSION DETAILS BEING INVESTIGATED

Mystery of Accident Deepens With Every Later Development.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 30.—Details of the explosion of gases on board the United States collier Nanshan some time ago have been brought to the United States by Third Assistant Engineer Elmer Hutchins, who has arrived here on the cruiser Buffalo.

The vessel, Hutchins declares, was running between Cavite and Hongkong when she was struck by a cyclone, which stove in some of the steel bulkheads of the vessel. A short time later a terrific explosion occurred in the paint locker, and clouds of smoke arose. It is believed the explosion was caused by water coming in contact with some chemicals in the locker room, for the vessel was shipping a great deal of paint.

Captain Carver took five members of the crew to investigate. They did not reappear promptly, and Hutchins began an investigation. He was overcome. By some inexplicable freak the bodies of all the men were stripped nude by the fumes. All the men were dragged out of the hold. Captain Carver and Hutchins were rescued by Chief Officer Rapp, and two Filipino sailors died.

The cause of the explosion are being inquired into at Hongkong.
